

The Human Resource Consulting Group Receives Champion of Youth Award from The Boys and Girls Club of the Lower Naugatuck Valley

Seymour, Connecticut – May 11, 2011: The last few years are a time that will be remembered for cutbacks and fiscal decline for many businesses and non-profit organizations. With a projected budget deficit, The Boys and Girls Club of the Lower Naugatuck Valley faced difficult decisions in order to make ends meet. This year, they honored The Human Resource Group (HRCG) of Seymour for their goodwill and impeccable service.

“When we heard of the troubles the Boys and Girls Club were faced with, we responded with a pro-bono offer to take on the Club’s payroll, time and attendance, and labor tracking for grant reporting” stated Robin Imbrogno, President and Founder of HRCG. “We designed and installed an automated web clocking system to manage payroll by capturing time and attendance and provide labor allocations to automatically feed grant reporting into the Club’s QuickBooks. This real-time recording technology might sound basic, but introducing automation like is not a simple task, given the limited resources that many non-profits are challenged with.”

Jack Ribas, the Executive Director of the Boys and Girls Club of the Lower Naugatuck Valley stated, “Having this technology does so much for our organization. We are now able to monitor work shifts and time punches by using the electronic tracking and reporting functions. Our employees’ pay reflects actual time worked while capturing critical reporting data at the source. HRCG has brought the club into the 21st century in terms of time management. The web clocking system installed by HRCG has helped in more ways than we imagined. These services and automation of accounting functions allow our existing personnel to better use their time for managing state and federal grants, managing operations, and delivering programs to enable the young people, especially those from disadvantaged circumstances, to realize their full potential as productive, responsible, and caring citizens.”

"The collaborative efforts of HRCG and the Club have resulted in improved operations, allowing management to focus on providing a thriving place for kids to go. HRCG is proud to be associated with the Boys and Girls Club of the Lower Naugatuck Valley and humbled to be honored with The Champion of Youth Award," stated Robin Imbrogno.
